What are some questions audit can be asking itself?

How can you help your organisation be more future facing and forward looking? For example...

- Is there any additional data and reporting that audit could be communicating to the governance, risk and operations parts of the business to enable better strategic and operational planning?
- Could you be providing reporting more regularly of certain critical indicators?

What emerging regulatory and legislative changes are on the horizon? How do these need to be planned for?

How could the core audit function evolve? For example:

- How does your audit calendar need to evolve?
- How are you keeping up with changes in the risk function?
- How well are you utilising technology to support you and how could you leverage it better?

Focus on building your capability strategic foresight and learning to think in systems

UPSTREAM

Thinking in systems

Three problems

1. Problem blindness (I can't see the problem)
2. Lack of ownership (It's not my problem)
3. Tunnelling (I'm too busy to deal with that)
